

"I have been involved in many projects over the last 16 years, and in that time I have rarely looked forward to meeting with a developer and contractor as I have on this project. It has been an extreme pleasure to be involved with the individuals responsible for bringing this project together. The expeditor for the developer is Ron Daneault. Our office has worked with Ron in the past and I have found him to be the main reason for this building coming in under budget and on time. Ron is extremely organized and has continuously monitored the progress of the design work and the construction. He thoroughly understands the responsibilities of each team member and has orchestrated a fine piece of work. When was the last time you heard an Architect praise a developer? Well, this Architect has enjoyed the experience."

Richard A. Henly, AIA
Principal
McCulloch England Associates Architects

